Welcome to the Medical Information Website

The information provided through this webspace is intended for Canadian licensed health care professionals only and is provided to you in response to your unsolicited request for information. The product-specific medical response document(s) you choose to view may contain information that is not part of the Health Canada-approved Product Monograph. Such information is for educational purposes only and is not intended to provide medical advice, and should in no way replace your clinical judgment. Novartis Pharmaceuticals Canada recommends the use of its products in accordance with the approved Prescribing Information, which can be viewed and downloaded by accessing the "Resource" section of this webspace.
